EMPLOYES WILL NOW GET SALARIES

VOL. 5 .- NO. 305.

CITY COUNCIL APPROPRIATES MONEY TO PAY WORKERS-MICHAEL WOLF ASKS COUNCIL TO AMEND BUILDING LAW.

The city employes will now get their salaries. Tuesday night the city council appropriated $1,200 with which to pay for cleaning and repairing the streets, salaries of city employes and for feed and fuel bills until money derived from the fall taxes can be used. For the past few weeks the salary claims have beer held up, causing much grumbling and Posides the adoption of the assessment rolls for the square improvement, the meeting Tuesday night was devoid of important business. Several minor matters were taken up and disposed of.

Thomas Haltom was given permission to build two additional rooms to his home in 802 Indiana street. Following the granting of this request a petition written by Michael A. Wolf asking that the law governing the building or houses be amended, making it unlawful for one structure to be built nearer the street than the other houses in the block was presented. Mr. Wolf presented another petition protesting against the building of the colored Baptist church or the corner of Howard and Crows streets. He claims that the church is being built so that it will be closer to the sidewalk line on Crown street than the other structures in that block As the council has no power govern ing where a church shall be built n action was taken on either petition The engineers report on the completion of Jackson street was made. The report showed the improvement cost $5,429.74. The council accepted the engineer's report.

A complaint was made against certain citizens who are driving over the walks and curbs. Two instances, one where the walk on the north side c Washington street, between Locust and Bloomington, and the other or east Seminary, were called to the at tention of the council. Marshal John was ordered to look after the matter

James B. Nelson was present at th meeting and acting in behalf of the owners of the property abutting the alley running from Vine to Indians street between Walnut and Washing ton, asked the council to reconside the petition asking for the improve ment of the alley. Mr. Nelson state that the property owners were willing to pay for the improvement. On this agreement the council ordered the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for the work.

Spear Pitman and Carey Austin also interviewed the council. Last summe these two gentlemen broke a large quantity of stone used on the east Washington street improvement, they claim, and have never been paid for the labor. Tuesday night they asked the council to accommodate them with the payment. Mr. Austin explained to the council that he intended spending the winter in Indianapolis and that the money would be needed during the cold weather. The street committee promised to investigate.

After this the following claim ordihance was allowed and the meeting adjourned:

Home Mission Week. -

All America should be interested in the plans of the churches for the observance of Home Mission Week in the church, Nov. 17 to 24. In Greencastle, for special reasons the week will be observed this week with a series of union meetings. Our greatproblems, and the American Home Mission enterprise represented by the various mission boards of the country is the broadest, brayest movement in the United States because it stands for the social, economic, intellectual, and spiritual blessing of all the people. Men Charged With Murder of Green eastle Man Engage Counsel to Defend Them.

LEBANON, Ind., Nov. 12 -The law firm of Higgins & Rogers, of this city, will assist in the defense o Charles C. Tansel and son Ruskin who are charged with second degree murder for the killing of Robert N Krofft, of Greencastle, at Wincheste on October 5.

Krofft received injuries in a street fight which resulted in his death three days later. The fight took place in front of the Windsor hotel at Winchester, and started between the elder Tansel and Krofft. It is said that City alleys and streets interyoung Tansel, seeing his father was no match for Krofft, who was a larger man jumped into the fight with ; pocket knife, while Krofft had the elder Tansel down on the sidewalk.

Henry U. Johnson, of Richmond will be the chief counsel for the de fense, and in addition to the Lebanon attorneys, will be assisted by Cald well & Parry, of Winchester.

What the Tariff Tax is.

Personal experience or the experience of well-known local fellow citizens furnish the best possible proof of the tariff taxation scheme and how it works. Misses Era and Edna Bence daughters of Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Bence, are in Berlin, Germany, doing post-graduate work. A few days ago was as the---th anniversary of Dr. Bence's birth and the daughters far away sent him a birthday present-an amber cigar holder; it i about two inches long and possibly half inch in diameter. HEAD-OON COLLISION BETWEEN PASSENGER AND FREIGHT TRAINS IN INDIANAPOLIS THIS MORNING KILLS AND MAIMS SCORES.

ENGINES ARE TELESCOPED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 13 .--Special)-Forteen persons were killed and scores injured when a Chicago Hamilton & Dayton passenger train rashed into a freight train at Irving on about three o'clock this morning. The freight train was standing on a witch when the passenger train, running at forty miles an hour, left the nain track and entered the switch which had been left open by trainmen.

With a deafening crash the passenger engine telescoped the freight engine. The engineer of the passenger train saved his life by jumping. Several of the dead who were not killed in the collision were scalded to death by escaping steam from the smashed and broken engines.

The force of the crash awakened many residents of Irvington and soon hundreds were busy rescuing the injured and removing the dead bodies. The injured were hurried to hospitals and every effort made to give them relief. The list of dead and injured do not contain the names of any Green-

The Paragon Aunt

"Aunt Nancy's come," Nannette announced to her bosom friend in a choked voice, "and of all the frights!" "What do you mean?" asked her bosom friend.

"Well," hesitated Nannette, course she's as neat as can be, but her clothes look as if they were made for Mrs. Methuselah."

"If it's only her clothes you needn't worry." remarked the bosom friend. 'You don't have to wear 'em." "It's not only her clothes!" shrieked

Nannette. "It's her notions! They are simply appalling!" "For instance?" suggested the bosom friend, taking a look at her back hair in the mirror with the help of a hand glass. "For one thing, she objects to my ly. "The very first thing she did-after taking a comprehensive view of the family-was to stare at me through her spectacles-steel rimmed ones at that-and ask: 'Is this one Nancy, my Godchild?' "Dad, who is as proud as he can be of his enormous family, looked a little sheepish at that. "'Y-y-yes,' he stuttered. 'We had her christened Nancy, of course, but she has taken a fancy to be calleder-Nr nette.' " 'Humph!' said Aunt Nancy."

"Haven't [always heard you speak of your Aunt Nancy as a paragon? demanded the bosom friend, "Haven't you told me time and time again that your father looks upon her as the salt of the earth?"

"He does," acknowledged Nannette. 'And so do I at a distance. But because she is dad's favorite sister why must I follow her old fogy notions?

Why, she was perfectly scandal ized at the idea of my entertaining Charles all the evening without the assistance of the other members of the family! The idea!

"Of course when the bell rang at the accustomed hour that horrid Tom had to bellow out, 'It's Nan's Tues day night beau, Aunt Nancy. Parler's pre-empted for the evening.'

"You should have seen her stare. "'Am I to understand, Maria,' she asked, fixing poor mother with her eye, 'that this child has visitors from whose company her parents and her brothers and sisters are barred?" "Times have changed, Nancy."

said dad, looking silly." "And Aunt Nancy," prompted the bosom friend.

"'In my time,' said Aunt Nancy, 'it was our greatest pleasure to have our parents and all the family enter into the enoyjments and help in the entertainment of our friends. Hospitality meant something then, and I believe our guests enjoyed themselves. It seems to me anything but dignified for parents to be excluded or for any room in their house to be shut away from them.'

"Well, I declare!" said the bosom

"Now do you wonder that I was frightened at the idea of Charles meeting her?" asked Nannette. "But I haven't told you the worst," with gloomy emphasis. "I slipped away while she was holding forth, hoping that she would forget all about it. But I couldn't shake off my forebodings and the conversation flagged."

"Nothing unusual in that, is there?" wickedly interposed the bosom friend. "Charles actually began to look bored," continued Nannette, "and then we both had such a shock! If you will believe me, who should come marching into the room butrupted the bosom friend. "Aunt Nancy," repeated Nannette. Wasnt' it awful? I had been so afraid of something of the kind. She planted herself in the only straight-

POINTING THE FUTURE.

Father Learned That His Son Was Born to be a Lawyer.

A man who was not wise in the ways of the world was the father of a bright boy. He spent many hours in debating how the lad's future was to be shaped and finally went for advice to the village sage, who at one time had been apart of the selfish, striving world, and who left it scarred and shaken, but shot with wisdom. And the sage told the perplexed father how to determine his son's future and the father straightway went and did as he was advised. But the next day he sought out the sage in sore perplexity.

"The whole plan went wrong," said he, "and I am in a quandary what to do next." "What did I advise you to do?"

"But when I came back he was seated on the book, with the half devoured apple in his hand and the money in his pocket."

"That settles it," said the sage. 'the lad is a born lawyer."

Andrew Carnegie, at one of his famous dinners in New York, talked bout the prodigal and ostentatious xpenditure of a certain type of New York millionaire.

"He takes a Velasquez," said Mr. Carnegie, "and cuts it into three strips, so that it will go on a screen. Paul Bourget told the world about that. And I heard the other day another thing about him.

"A gentleman was being shown over the three-million-dollar palace of one of these millionaires. The gentleman stopped before an enormous mirror and said:

"What a large and perfect glass! Pity it's scratched.'

"'It is rather a pity,' said the milionaire, carelessly; and, turning to is major domo, he sald: 'Don't let the children have any more diamonds to play, with, Maurice."

FALL STRAWBERRIES.

Success with New Plants of Western

New York Growers. Fruit growers in western New York are demonstrating that it is possible to grow strawberries until November. One of the farmers who have achieved a fine result says his berries are known as the Francis and America, seedlings of the Pan-American strawberry. They were originated in Iowa.

After testing them the previous season this grower bought 500 plants in the spring for $100. These varieties differ from other strawberries only in that they blossom continuously from June until November. In order to get when I returned I found him reading a large crop at any one time it is necessary to pinch or cut off the blossoms up to within three weeks of the time the fruit is desired. On some of his plants this man pinched the blossoms until July 1. These plants began bearing berries July 30. On his main crop of plants the blossoms were cut off until August 1. An immense crop of ripe fruit green berries and blossoms now covered the plants, having developed after August 1.

The first picking was made August 22 and fruit was promised until free: ing weather. These plants had already afforded several pickings, three ave: aging more than 600 quarts to the acre. A ready market has been found at 25 cents per quart, and this grow er is convinced that the average net returns from an acre of these stra berries in one year would be $1,000 or better. Ordinary spring bearing strawberries produce one crop in two

These varieties of strawberries produce a crop in the autumn of the same year they are planted and will bear a crop in June of the second year and continue to produce fruit from then until November. Thus in stead of one crop in two years the produce three crops in two years With less rain and more sunshine the berries would have been of better col or larger, of better flavor and mo: pleasing in appearance. The flavo of the berries is superior to, if an different from those picked in June. Springfield Republican.

Domestic Riot Followed.

In Japan the hospitality of the merchant in the city knows no bounds The ever-present cheery smile greet you at the door. You can't get away from it. It is as persistent as the tea girls, the mention of which remind me of a story. A Japanese shop gill was waxing warm in her demonstra tion before a handsome American o the merits of a massage ball whill the American's wife stood by. The coy little maid used all her persuasive gestures and what little English she knew to effect a sale. The American smiled fondly upon her, which brought a frown of reproof from the wife. Then, as a final argument, the litt Jap girl placed a loving arm about the tourist's neck, while she rubbed the ball gently over his chest. The domestic riot which took place in a certain stateroom on the ship that night furnished gossip for the passengers for hours. And the frate wife had the massage ball there as a hateful reminder of the winsome ways of Japanese sales-ladies .- Bookkeeper.

The sorts of rices that were suspected of causing it in man were fed scientifically to chickens. Fowls fed on the white milled rice get a general nervous inflammation which is just about what human beri-beri is. Five weeks fixed the clock for the chickens. Experiments also showed that chickens stayed healthy, if fed on original old-fashioned rice padi, as prepared by the country people in Malay.-New York Press.

Unwritten Rules Which Are Rigidly Enforced in the Ranch Region of Texas

JOY WAGONS IN GENERAL USE

The Range Riders Do not Permit Any Undue Liberties to Be Taken in Running the Machines - Shooting Up of Automobiles Common.

There are certain unwritten rules that must be rigidly observed by automobilsts in the ranch region of Western Texas. The joy rider soon comes to grief in this part of the country.

The automobile is in general use in the range territory, but the cowboys do not permit any undue liberties to be taken in running the machines. The shooting up of automobiles by cowboys is a common practice. This method of bringing an automobile to a stop is not used unless the cowboy thinks that he has not been treated with proper consideration.

An instance occurred near Brady a few days ago. Dick Davis started ed partly upon the sheet and partly from there on a thirty mile trip to his ranch in Concho county. He was driving his automobile himself and had no passenger. He was in a hurry to reach the ranch and did not observe the rules of the road as laid down in this part of the country.

He was spinning along at a high speed when he came upon a drove of mules in charge of a man on horseback who carried a rifle in a scabbard. Instead of bringing the automobile to a stop when he came upon the mules Mr. Davis sped right past them, causing a stampede. A moment later three quick reports of a rifle were heard and the automobile's two rear tires collapsed.

"The bullets knocked the machine completely out of commission," Mr. Davis said in telling of the affair. "The man with the mules got his stray anithem down the road. I knew that he was right, so I didn't try to round

A man from Ohio opened a real estate office at Sweetwater recently and bought a big automobile in which to convey customers over the country. He had an experience on his first trip that taught him a lesson.

He had four Missouri land prospec tors in his automobile and was on the way to look at some land about forty miles south of Sweetwater. In order to make a short cut to the property he was crossing a big pasture. In the distance could be seen large numbers of cattle which were being driven by cowboys.

"None of you men ever saw a cattle roundup, did you?" inquired the real estate dealer. There was a chorus of answers in the negative. Well, that's what's going on over there. I'll just run you over to the place and we'll watch 'em a while." The automobile was headed in the direction of the gathering herd of cattle and soon attracted the attention of the cowboys. They gesticulated at the auto, but the signs were not understood by those at whom they were directed. The cattle were beginning to snort and were on the verge of a stampede when two of the cowboys can be adjusted to any position depulled their six shooters and began to fire at the automobile. The bullets whizzed around the wheels. "Here!" yelled one of the land prospectors to the real estate dealer, "get us out of here quick!"

The real estate man wanted to get away from the scene as badly as his companions and he lost no time in spinning away as fast as the machine

Many of the ranch broncoes are not used to automobiles, and when one of these animals is being ridden by a cowboy and comes upon an automobile in the road the chauffeur who knows the customs of the region stops and keeps the machine quiet until the horse and rider have gone by and are a safe distance on the other side.

Its Meaning. Walter is a small boy from the mill district, who became a member of our Sunday-school after a Christmas tree to which he had been invited. "Walter, do you know the Lord's Prayer?" his teacher asked, "Nome," replied small Walter. "You do not know 'Our Father Who Art in Heaven'?" "Oh, yassum, that's Mis' Marjie's prayer." "Mis' Marjie" is Walter's the prayer Miss G. asked, "Do you know what 'amen' at the end means?" Walter's face brightened as he replied, "Yassum, hit means now you done, git up."-The Delineator.

Sunburn after six or eight days brings pigment out into the skin-a spinal nerve protective phenomenon not occurring in paralytics-and this protects against further sunburn, but if the mistake is made of getting another dose of sunburn before pigment is deposited, injury is added to injury and burn to burn.

NOVEL CALENDAR. Strips Over Each Date Are Detached Daily, Indicating Current Date.

A custom common with probably everybody in using calendars is to cross out with a pen or pencil each date of the month as it goes. There is then small chance of mistaking the date. A Philadelphia man suggests a much better and neater method of checking off the dates in a calendar he has patented, an illustration of which is shown here. In this calendar there is a series of transverse paper strips extending to the center of each row of figures. The dates are printed upon the strips, the latter being secured to the sheets only between the dates and detachable under the figures. When the strip is removed the top and bottom portions of the date still remain visible. Each day the strip covering the corresponding date is removed. The user is thus able to tell at a glance the date of the month Also, if he desires to refer to the dates of days already passed, he can readily determine them from the partly broken figures.

TO SHOW PHOTOGRAPHS

Album is Equipped with Magnifying

Glass and Mirror. A compact and interesting device for home entertainment has been invented by a New York man. It con sists of a photograph holder, which mals together and continued with is at the same time an exhibitor, the whole being designed in the form of an album. The album is set on a stand, back down, and is divided into three compartments, the two side compartments for holding photographs and an electric battery, and the centre division having a mirror set in the back and a lens in the front, with space between for inserting the views. This inner section is movable and sired, the magnifying glass in the front enlarging the views and bringing out all the detail. An electric light, supplied from the battery in the storage compartment, illumines the exhibition chamber and enhances the general effect of the picture. For evenings at home this device can be made both instructive and entertainturning the automobile around and ing with a collection of historic views.

Squab Courtship.

The squab farm is an interesting place. Belgian homers are the best breeders. The parents birds are the pick of all the flocks. They pair young. The male selects his partner, and his wooing is not easy. At first he is pecked at angrily. He is a persistent fellow though, and will not be repulsed. The object of his attention tries to escape by flight. He pursues relentlessly; when she flies he flies after her; when she runs he runs after her, when she roosts he roosts beside her. This keeps up on the average for two days, then Miss Pigeon relents, evidently deciding it would be hard hearted to deny so ardent a lover. The couple then settle down to a staid married life. They average five pairs of squabs a year. Eggs are hatched in eighteen days, week-day teacher. After explaining and four weeks later the squabs go to market. They grow like weeds, at the end of the four weeks being fully feathered pigeons.

> What's in a Man. "All the constituents of a 150pound man are contained in 1,200 eggs," said the chemist. "There is enough gas in a man," he went on, "to fill a gasometer of 3,-640 cubic feet. There is enough iron to make four nails. There is enough fat to make 75 candles and a large cake of soap. There is enough phosphorous to make 8,064 boxes of matches. "There is enough hydrogen in him to fill a balloon and carry him up to the clouds. The remaining constituents of a man would yield, if utilized, six cruets of salt, a bowl of sugar and ten gallons of water."

No wonder the Psalmist said: "I am fearfully and wonderfully made."

Sadie stared blankly into Falkman's eyes, as Mrs. Sadie MacPherson hurried away. Of course, Mrs. MacPherson could not be expected to know that their engagement had been broken the night before, but it was decidedly embarrassing to be placed in charge of a man who only 18 hours since she had dismissed with an incoherent statement of the fact that she never wished to see "What Mrs. Mac says goes," reminded Falkman, laughingly. "I know that you'd rather not, but I never would dare look Mrs. Mac in the face again if I had disobeyed one of her commands."

"Your devotion to Mrs. MacPherson is touching," was the girl's sarcastic reply. "Being more brave, I will take upon myself the liberty of releasing you from the unsought obligation.

"Be warned in time." urged Falkman. "Shall we mere mortals seek to overthrow the imperial dictates of the kindly little lady who so obligingly runs this small world of ours Remember the fate of Mrs. Bissell, and be warned.

Sadie Arnold smiled in spite of was so recent that all their set were still laughing over the defeat of the woman who had sought to wrest social supremacy from Mrs. MacPherson and who had been forced to beat an inglorious retreat.

Falkman took advantage of the smile to gently touch her arm and guide her through the door into the room where a buffet lunch was being served. Dubiously he regarded the crush around the tables.

"I confess that my courage fails me," he announced.

"And you a football captain!" said Sadie, with a scornful smile. "That's different," was the prompt "And your fear of Mrs. Mac isbegan Sadie. Jimmie held up a warning hand.

"My fear of Mrs. Mac is as strong as ever," he declared, "which leads me to the second part of this proposition. Mrs. Mac did not say to feed you. I know a splendid tearoom only a couple of blocks away A cup of tea and some toasted muffins will be better than the salad that served for Mrs. Ridgeway's reception last night, and Mrs. Bonsall's musical breakfast yesterday afternoon. The same caterer I know supplied all three."

'With the same salad?" asked Sadie, with a laugh

"They make it by the ton," he declared. "Let's slip out and have a comforting cup of tea in peace."

For a moment Sadie wavered, but Falkman's suggestion won. All the forenoon she had assisted to prepare for the opening of the bazar. Then had come the matinee rush of patrons and for hours she had suffered the torment of a headache in a babel of small talk and sharp bargaining. The quiet of the tearoom would be very refreshing. Falkman read her assent in her eyes and hurried her away from the crowded room where men fought for the refreshments for which they had paid liberally in purchases at the booths.

"This is nice," assented Sadie. half an hour later, as her cup was resplenished a second time and a fresh supply of muffins was brought. "I'm glad you thought of it, Jim-

The name had slipped out before she realized it. In the relaxation of comfort and quiet she had forgotten for the moment the quarrel of the night before.

Falkman wisely ignored the slip as he nodded assent. He was beyond his years in the ways of woman, and no gloating exclamation added to her confusion.

"I am very grateful to Mrs. Mac for turning me over to your thoughtful care," announced Sadie to reward him for his action. "This is so much better than that tiresome crowd. My head is better already."

"You had no lunch," he reminded. "I'm always headachy when I'm hungry. That and the rest cure combined will do the work. Have some more of these preserves."

At last, after all was over, Sadie reluctantly rose from the table, he walked down the avenue with her, still conversing upon safe and impersonal topics.

The soft spring air completed Sadie's course and as she paused before the steps leading to her home she held out her hand. 'You have something of mine I

CENTRALIZED GOVERNMENT.

Professor Metchnikoff has shown that the beneficent germs of the body, the organisms that fight disease germs, in their overzeal tend to develop in such numbers that finally they cause the destruction of the very life they once defended. Something analogous to this can be traced in the history of Europe. Our own recent history exhibits a parallel that may well cause us to reflect.

Some sociologists aver that the golden age of the workingman was the fourteenth century. The great guilds of the cities, in a measure corresponding to our trade unions, dictated terms to their rulers, often engaging in common cause with the kings against the nobles. "Free cities" arose, and all the cities had a voice not only in their own, but in national affairs. This voice later was Coincident with the industrial expansion appeared great commercial f houses and guilds of merchants, some of them financial families, other money dynasties as strong as any we have to-day, international in their dealings, powerful enough to influence the choice of a German emperor. to dictate peace or war. The governments of those times, too, made official inquiry into the affairs of the money power and passed Sherman laws and Elkins laws.

Then came the fall of both the guilds and the financial houses. Commerce declined throughout Europe. The power of the kings was increased to curb the power of the aggregations of capital, to curb the power of the nobles, and it curbed the power herself. Mrs. Bissell's discomfiture of the people as well. The money dynasties dissolved, the ducal houses lost their power or actually ceased to be, and the free cities declined or lost their rights. The third estate was throttled in France, and at last there remained the logical outcome of a completely centralized power. Louis XIV., saying: "I am the state."

Evils exist in this country. But in crying for more power at Washington, let us not forge a weapon which in designing hands might be turned against the people it was meant to

TASTE IN NEW YORK.

Henry Pruger, of the defunct Cate de l'Opera in New York, said of his failure a few days before he returned to Europe: "I didn't understand, I'm afraid, the taste of New York. It is peculiar. New York contains a good many Judge McCorkles. Old Judge McCorkle, so the story goes. made his pile in Arizona. He then repaired to San Francisco to spend the rest of his days in luxury. He had $300,000. The judge was dazzled by the splendor and opulence of San Francisco, but he did not let this be seen. Quite the contrary, in fact. The morning after his arrival Judge McCorkle entered the breakfast-room of San Francisco's largest hotel. and, having studied the complex menu a long while, he said to the waiter: 'Young man, some frijoles.' 'Beg pardon, sir. Some what?' said the waiter. The judge sneered, 'You don't speak Spanish, hey?' he said. 'Well, then, bring me some beans.' I'm sorry, sir,' said the waiter, we don't serve beans for breakfast. 'You don't, hey?' said the judge sarfor breakfast, hey?' His voice quivered with scorn. 'Well, young man, I come from Arizona, the poorest kentry on this here globe; but even in Arizona we git beans three times

WEEK'S PRACTICE IN FOOTBALL OPENS UP WITH SPIRIT-NO INJURIES.

BEAR STORIES KEEP COMING

According to the Butler Collegian An uncrossed goal line during the remainder of the season," has been adopted as the slogan of the members of the Butler football team. On the other hand, the DePauw Student Body calling to the Old old squad to 'make a hundred."

To figure a game by dope is a thing of the past or Butler might be found to come up wanting. This Indianapolis aggregation publishes hugh "bear stories" concerning the return o Morgan to the squad, concerning the numerous new trick plays which they will let loose on DePauw, and concerning the dope on past games However, these may not all be "bear stories," yet there is no doubt in the minds of DePauw supporters that the game will be a good and fast one and that DePauw will come out with a large score.

injured in the Rose Poly game is a thing that has started this week's practice with a bang, and Coach Cunningham has commended a drill on the men which will put them in even more perfect shape than they were Saturday. Every day Rowan is becoming more experienced at the quarter position and by the end of the week he is expected to be in shape to even do bigger things than he did i the Poly game. Tucker's leg is fast improving and nothing is going to stop the nevry little captain by the time Butler makes her appearance or McKeen Field next Saturday. Grady and Bachelder make a pretty pair of tackles and much is expected of them in the line work. Sotries have come to DePauw that

Morgan has been out or school for three weeks and that it will be im possible for him to get in any more games this season. However, the Indianapolis papers give their home team, stories that contradict these statements. It has been rumored about the campus that a line has been kept upon "Pete" Morgan and that if the Butler aggregation tries to slip him in there will be something doing. Further, if Butler ever had a line pon the playing of any DePauw eam they should have on this seaon for there has either been Coach Thomas or a member of the squad at every game DePauw has played in the state. It is hardly believed by the auad however that any of the Butlertes went quite so far as to follow the team to Lansing Michigan. The peculiar part about this business is the act that at no time has DePauw un closed any of their trick plays which they have been saving for Butler and Earlham. The Poly game was won on straight football just as was the Miami game and Butler has had no chance to become any wiser only to the event that there is something terrible ahead for them.

Besides the students who will witness the game Saturday there will be a. large number of alumni present owing to the fact that this date has been set for "home-coming." And this will be another advantage for those "old boys" sure do root.

Claris Weer, Helen Harvey and Florence Lowe attended the Indiana-Iowa game in Indianapolis Saturday. Benjamin B. Towne, '12, is attending the school for Social Workers in Boston this year. Ray Colson and George L. Clark spent Sunday in Paris, Ill. Lair Hull visited friends in Indianapolis Sunday.
